BOTHWELL ONCOLOGY SERVICES DIRECTOR ACHIEVES BOARD CERTIFICATION

SEDALIA - Sandra Hewlett, director of Oncology Services, has earned her credential to become a Fellow in the American College of Healthcare Executives (FACHE).

Earning board certification in health-care management as a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives signifies expertise, experience and commitment to continuing education and professional development. The American College of Healthcare Executives is an international professional society of more than 40,000 health-care executives who lead hospitals, health systems and other health-care organizations.

Hewlett is pursuing a doctoral degree in health-care administration, which requires her to become an ACHE Fellow and earn ACHE board certification.

“This is a reflection of ACHE’s recognition that today’s health-care leaders must demonstrate their commitment to providing high-quality services to the patients and families in the communities they serve,” Hewlett said.

With 33 years of health-care experience, Hewlett has served as Bothwell’s oncology services director since April 2007. She manages and is responsible for all medical oncology and radiation oncology departmental operations at the Susan O’Brien Fischer Cancer Center at Bothwell.
